WHY 100% MADE IN AMERICA MATTERS: OUR COMMITMENT TO NATIONAL SECURITY

Artificial intelligence is the most powerful capability humanity has ever created. Providing this technology to U.S. police departments requires a 100% made-in-America commitment to law enforcement agencies and the U.S. taxpayers that fund them. Offshoring the engineering and product management of AI software for U.S. police departments is egregious and dangerous. TRULEO's steadfast commitment to being 100% made in America underscores our dedication to quality, security, and economic responsibility.

Supporting the American Economy

We understand the economics. We know that it is cheaper to hire workers overseas to perform all kinds of tasks, but cheaper doesn't always mean better. It's a risk that TRULEO is not willing to take. Our policy of 100% made-in-America reflects our dedication to supporting the American workforce and ensuring critical technologies remain within our borders. TRULEO is proud to create jobs that support American workers and their families. This approach helps strengthen communities, foster innovation, and ensure that the benefits of our success are shared domestically. Choosing American-made isn't just a business decision; it's a way to invest in the future of our nation.

Uncompromising Security

Foreign espionage is rampant in our country, posing a significant threat to various sectors of American infrastructure. With data security already being a significant concern for critical industries like law enforcement, TRULEO simply cannot and will not risk opening the door to vulnerabilities such as data breaches and intellectual property theft.

TRULEO will never outsource or offshore the development of our software, because we want to provide our clients with the confidence and reassurance that their sensitive information is safe and secure. By ensuring that our technology is developed exclusively within the United States, TRULEO upholds the highest standards of security and sovereignty.

Why This Matters to Law Enforcement

Being 100% made in America aligns with TRULEO's broader commitment to ethical business practices. We believe in fostering trust not only with our clients but also with the communities we operate in. By choosing to develop our technology domestically, we're making a conscious decision to prioritize responsibility over short-term gains. Officers need tools from technology partners they can trust—tools that are not only effective but also ethically and securely developed. TRULEO's commitment to being 100% American-made ensures that our clients have access to reliable, high-quality technology that aligns with their mission to serve and protect.

Conclusion

In an era where many companies opt for cost-saving measures through offshore development, TRULEO remains dedicated to being 100% made in America. This decision reflects our loyalty to quality, security, and the well-being of our customers and communities. For TRULEO, this isn't just about where our products are built; it's about embodying the values that make us a trusted partner for law enforcement agencies nationwide.
